According to UT MD Anderson,
alcohol increases a person's risk for seven types of cancer, including breast cancer.

An advisory report from the U.S. Surgeon General indicated that drinking alcohol increases breast cancer risk more than any other cancer in women. In fact, more than 16 percent of the 270,000 breast cancer cases in women in 2019 were linked to alcohol consumption. Alcohol contains ethanol, which the body breaks down into a cancer-causing substance known as acetaldehyde. Acetaldehyde causes DNA damage, which also can occur due to oxidative stress caused by alcohol. Alcohol also can alter levels of estrogen and other hormones associated with breast cancer. While millions of women consume alcohol without ever developing breast cancer, those at elevated risk for the disease may want to avoid it. Even women considered at average risk for breast cancer should limit their consumption if they choose to drink.

Millions of dogs enter shelters and rescues in the United States each year.

According to the ASPCA™, 2.8 million dogs entered shelters and rescues in 2025. While the ASPCA™ reports euthanasia rates for shelter dogs decreased by 7 percent between 2024 and 2025, 320,000 dogs were still euthanized in 2025. Dogs, and large dogs in particular, also are spending more time in shelters than they were as recently as five years ago. The extended time in shelters has led to issues concerning shelter capacity, as many facilities have limited space for new animals. Prospective dog owners are urged to consider adoption when looking for a dog, as adoption can help prevent euthanasia and alleviate space issues at local shelters. Adoption also tends to be less expensive than purchasing a dog directly from a breeder.

Fall is one of the best times
to buy a car.

Fall may be the best time to pick apples, carve jack-o'-lanterns, and get cozy in warm sweaters. It also is one of the best times of the year to buy a car. According to U.S. News & World Report, dealerships deeply discount outgoing previous-year models beginning in October. This approach clears space for incoming inventory, which is released in late summer or early fall. Shopping during this window will give buyers a better selection, says the Oklahoma Central Credit Union. Fall also is a busy time when students return to school and families return to juggling hectic schedules. Come fall, some people also have their eyes on the upcoming holiday season, so fewer shoppers may be looking to take on a car loan. That lower demand can work in favor of buyers who are in the market for a vehicle and a good deal.

The American Academy of Orthodontists® recommends that children complete their first checkup with an orthodontist
by age seven.

This age is good for a first consultation because many children at this point have a mix of baby and permanent teeth, which offers the examining orthodontist considerable insight. But the AAO also notes that parents need not wait until a child is seven if they have any concerns or notice anything they might think is unusual regarding their child's teeth. Difficulty chewing or biting, mouth breathing, jaw shifting or clicking, cheek biting, facial imbalance, and early or late loss of baby teeth are potential indicators that a youngster can benefit from orthodontic care.

Halloween

Dip into this at your Halloween party

Halloween is a wildly popular holiday, and that popularity extends to adults as well as kids. Halloween parties dot many a social schedule come late October, and parties mean food. While it's customary to indulge in a few candied treats on Halloween, adults may want something with a little nutritional value as well. This "Halloween Dip With Carrots and Canapes" from Lines+Angles can make the perfect homemade party offering this Halloween.

Halloween Dip With Carrots and Canapes

Makes 4 servings

For the dip:

- 3 large avocados, halved, pitted, peeled and diced
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 lime, juiced
- 1 dash Tabasco® sauce
- ½ cup sour cream
- ¾ teaspoon kosher salt
- ½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1 small handful cilantro, finely chopped

To serve:

- 6 large carrots
- ½ cup sour cream
- 1 handful stuffed olives, sliced
- 1 handful seedless red grapes, sliced
- 5 slivered almonds

1. For the dip: Mash together avocado, garlic, lime juice, Tabasco®, sour cream, salt, and pepper in a serving bowl until smooth.
2. Stir in chopped cilantro. Cover and chill until ready to serve.
3. To serve: Peel and cut two carrots into thick coins. Top with sour cream and then olive and grape slices.
4. Cut the remaining carrots into finger shapes. Use a paring knife to shave down their ends into nail beds. Make a thin incision at the end of the nail beds and slide a slivered almond into them to mimic fingernails.
5. Serve finger carrots in the prepared avocado dip with the carrot coins on the side.

Car Care Month

Car Care & Automotive News

Winter vehicle maintenance starts now

Changing seasons expose vehicles to various conditions throughout the year. Although severe weather can occur at any time, the winter is known to be particularly harsh and can make it hard for a vehicle to function properly.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says winter weather can cause extremely dangerous road conditions. An estimated 320 fatal traffic crashes occurred in the United States in 2023, and 22,293 injuries happened when there was snow or sleet conditions at the time of the crash. It is essential that drivers prepare their vehicles for winter weather. Properly winterizing a car can help prevent breakdowns and accidents, and also potentially save drivers from being stranded in the cold.

Here are some winter car maintenance tips to consider before the first storm of the season, courtesy of AAA and State Farm®.

- Test the battery. A driver needs a battery to be fully charged and in good condition to start the engine on cold winter mornings. Colder temperatures cause chemical reactions within the battery, which can make electricity slow down and hinder the vehicle's ability to reach maximum power. Check the battery prior to winter, and replace it, if necessary.
- Check fluids. Part of winter preparation is ensuring that all of the car's fluids are at the right levels and appropriate for low temperatures. This includes engine oil, windshield washer fluid, and antifreeze.
- Schedule a maintenance checkup. A mechanic can look at hoses and belts to check that they are in good working order. Cold temperatures can make belts and hoses more brittle and prone to breaking.
- Apply a windshield repellent. Scraping ice and snow off of windshields on winter mornings can be a frustrating and arduous task. Adding hydrophobic repellent like Rain-X to the windshield can make it easier to remove ice later on.
- Maintain tire pressure. As outside temperatures drop, so does tire pressure. Routinely check and inflate tires to the recommended pressure listed on a label located on the driver's side door frame.
- Inspect the wiper blades. Seeing clearly out of the windshield is important for safe winter driving. In addition to a properly working defroster, drivers will need wiper blades that can remove rain and snow. If any streaks or skips occur while using the wipers, it might be time for a new set.
- Conduct a brake check. A combination of snow, moisture, and salt on roads can contribute to rust on brakes and rotors. Symptoms of brake issues include noises, sticking brake pads, and slower stop times. Before the thick of winter, drivers are urged to have their brakes checked by a professional. Winter is on the horizon, and vehicle owners should prepare their cars and trucks now for the rough weather to come.

October is Fire Prevention Month

FIRE SAFETY Smarts

Fire Prevention Week™ in October is a great time to plan, prevent and help keep your family protected against home fires!

KNOW THE DRILL

PLAN YOUR ESCAPE

Follow these tips to create a fire escape plan with your family:

- > Create an escape plan that identifies two ways out of every room.
- > Pick an outdoor family meeting place that's a safe distance from your home.
- > Keep hallways, stairs and doors free of clutter.
- > Make sure windows and doors can be opened by the people who need them.
- > Practice the plan with everyone in your household at least twice a year.

5 RULES TO REMEMBER

Study these important tips for staying safe in the event of a fire:

#1 Rule: GET OUT & STAY OUT

If a fire starts, kids should get out of the house right away and tell a grown-up. Leave quickly, go to your family's meeting place, and call 911 from a safe location. Never go back inside!

2. Stay low: Crawl under the smoke on your hands and knees because cleaner air stays near the floor.

3. Feel doors: Use the back of your hand to touch a door or doorknob before opening it. If it is hot, or if smoke blocks the way, use a second exit like a window.

4. Never hide: Never hide under beds or in closets where firefighters or adults cannot find you.

5. Stop, drop and roll: If clothes catch fire, stop immediately, drop to the floor, cover your face with your hands, and roll over and over to put out the flames.

This content is provided for general educational and informational purposes only. It is intended to help children and families identify common potential fire hazards in the home and encourage safe practices. It is not intended to replace the advice, requirements, recommendations or instructions of a qualified fire safety professional, local fire department, building official, electrician, manufacturer or other appropriate professional.

BE A JUNIOR FIRE INSPECTOR

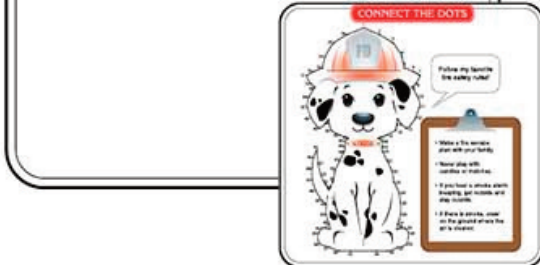

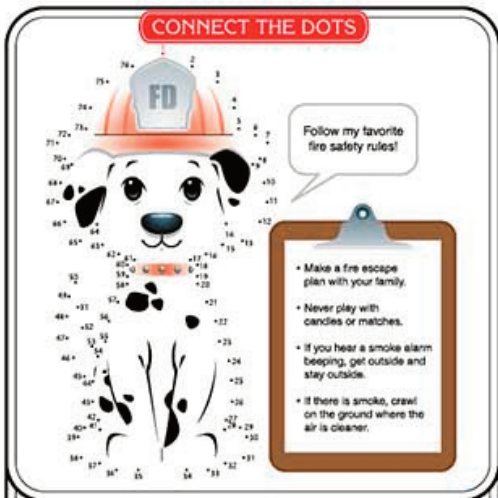

Kids, use this checklist to inspect your home for hazards, then share your report with your parents.

Remember, Early Detection Helps Save Lives!

When found in its earliest stages, breast cancer is often easier to treat and less likely to have spread. These awareness tips can help women detect breast cancer earlier:

- Know how your breasts normally look and feel and conduct monthly self-exams, so you can report any changes to a doctor right away.
- Get regular mammograms or recommended screenings.
- Have a doctor or nurse check your breasts during regular health visits.
- Talk to your doctor about your family history or personal risk factors.

Social Media & Email Marketing

Use these ready-to-post JPG designs for Facebook and Instagram; or select the "Marketing: Create an E-Card" Image Filter to personalize and send a formatted e-card to sales prospects using this image, or to create an email promotion for readers.

This is your illustration and copy for for the first week of October.

“A friend loves at all times, and a brother is born for a time of adversity.”
Proverbs 17:17 (NIV)

Reconnecting in Grace

As we navigate different stages in life, we often lose touch with people who were once deeply important to us. While drifting apart can feel like a natural shift, God calls us to cherish and actively nurture our relationships. We usually focus this effort on our immediate family or daily inner circle, but Christian care extends beyond our closest boundaries. Taking a moment to reach out to an old friend or distant relative, even with a simple note to check in, can reignite a vital bond and remind someone they are truly remembered.

~James Stone

“How many are your works, Lord! In wisdom you made them all; the earth is full of your creatures.”
Psalm 104:24 (NIV)

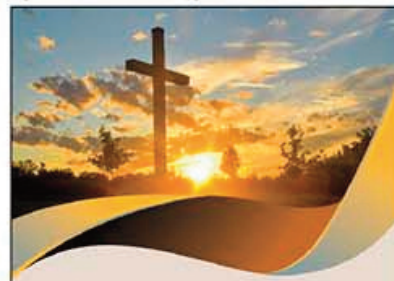

Grace in the Autumn Air

Taking time to enjoy the sights of autumn gives us a front row seat to God's quiet handiwork each day. Whether watching newly fallen leaves drift to the ground or feeling the crisp coolness of the morning breeze, these simple sensory moments carry a steady presence of grace. When we slow down enough to notice creation, our everyday routines turn into opportunities for quiet wonder. Pausing to take in autumn beauty grounds our hearts in gratitude for the God who holds every changing season in His hands.

~James Stone

This is your illustration and copy for for the third week of October.

“And let us consider how we may spur one another on toward love and good deeds, not giving up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but encouraging one another.”
Hebrews 10:24-25 (NIV)

Warmth Beyond the Weather

As October temperatures drop, we naturally seek out warmth and comfort, and we are called to extend that same warmth to those around us. Spiritually, one of the most effective ways we do this is through authentic Christian fellowship. In fellowship, we find genuine encouragement, practical support, and a vital reminder that we were never meant to walk through life alone. A shared conversation, a listening ear, or a warm meal together allows Christ's love to shine through us, driving away the coldness of isolation.

~James Stone

PASS 2 col x 7

This is your illustration and copy for for the fourth week of October.

“You will keep in perfect peace those whose minds are steadfast, because they trust in you.”
Isaiah 26:3 (NIV)

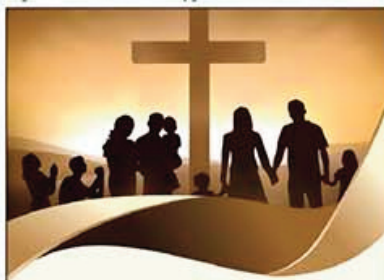

Choosing Peace in the Rush

Late October marks the arrival of a season filled with swiftly approaching, and just as swiftly fleeting, holidays. While the upcoming months bring a flurry of busyness and obligations, we must remember that it is okay to protect our inner calm even when the world around us feels frantic. Although our calendars speak to endless preparations and responsibilities, anchoring our hearts in Christ allows us to embrace the genuine joy of the holidays while maintaining a quiet, steady peace throughout.

~James Stone

PASS 2 col x 7

This is your illustration and copy for for the fifth week of October.

“Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting? But thanks be to God! He gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.”
1 Corinthians 15:55, 57 (NIV)

A Faith Stronger Than Fear

Much of the seasonal decor surrounding late October centers on skeletons, gravestones, and spooky imagery. While the surrounding culture treats these symbols with playful fright or lighthearted humor, believers can look at them through a far more hopeful lens. Where the world sees death as a subject of fear or entertainment, Christians see a gentle reminder of our ultimate hope: Jesus Christ conquered the grave through His death and resurrection, offering us eternal life and peace that outshines any shadow.

While the pay gap between men and women has narrowed over time, women only earn 87 cents for every dollar earned by a man for the same work or in comparable roles, according to 2025 research reporting by Statistics Canada.

How can you help close the gender pay gap?

Women and Gender Equality Canada (WAGE) offers the following suggestions:

- > Support women-led and-owned businesses.
- > Consider how unpaid work can be shared more equally at home.
- > If you have a business, take steps to ensure your policies for hiring, pay, leave and promotion are equitable.

Puzzle Sections Consistently Bring in $3,500 to $4,500 Revenue

Metro game and puzzle content makes producing popular kids' activity sections and pages a breeze.

The Clermont Sun and The People's Defender
(Champion Media)
Southern Ohio

CREATE:

Champion Media regularly sells and publishes popular puzzle and activity sections in their southern Ohio and northern Kentucky publications. The team produces the tabs in January, summer, Halloween and other times throughout the year, incorporating a variety of game and puzzle content from Metro. Their most recent Halloween edition included Metro coloring pages, kids' puzzles and advertising art. They run the publications in print and online for readers, and provide additional copies for advertisers to share with their customers. Publisher and Sales Director Karen Brown says, "The content and art provided by Metro makes layout a breeze!"

> Check Out Champion Media's Halloween Activity Book

SELL:

The Champion Media sales team focuses on marketing their puzzle sections to advertisers who may have waiting areas, such as medical offices or automotive service shops. Providing print copies of the section to advertisers allows them to give waiting customers something to do, while also sharing their advertising message and community involvement.

PROFIT:

Brown reports that readers and advertisers alike both love the puzzle publications, and they generate anywhere from $3,500 to $4,500 per edition. She says, "If you are not doing one yet, I suggest adding it to your promotional calendar!"

Unique places for holiday shopping

Although the holiday season is a relatively brief period, it still can consume months of time in regard to preparation, shopping and hosting. According to a SWNS Digital survey of 2,000 adults in the United States, the average American spends six weeks preparing for the holiday season. Five weeks are devoted to planning presents, meals and other essentials, while an entire week is just for decorating.

Shopping for presents can consume a lot of time, especially for those who aren't quite sure what to get. Thinking outside of the typical retail box may help with inspiration, and shoppers may encounter smaller crowds and find better deals. Here are some unique places to shop to grab great holiday gifts.

Pharmacies: While you're picking up your prescription or medicine cabinet essentials, take a spin around the store to see what else might be available. Typically, pharmacies have entire aisles dedicated to seasonal merchandise, so you might be able to find holiday decorations, gift wrap, candies, pampering items, and even food-related items and gift baskets.

Farmer's market: Farmer's markets pop up in towns on set days of the week. Although plenty of farm-related produce and plants are available, these markets also attract many other small businesses. You can find craftsmen, jewelry makers, niche food sellers, and so much more. School (or church) bazaar: In an effort to raise funds for the PTA or other organizations, schools and churches often host holiday fairs and bazaars right before the holidays. Area businesses rent table space and set up booths with an array of different products for sale. This is a great spot to grab interesting finds all under one roof. Plus, you're supporting the local community in the process.

Home improvement retailer: Plenty of people will appreciate practical gifts that they can use in and around the home. A visit to a hardware store or home improvement retailer offers up aisles of essentials for the do-it-yourselfer. While new shoveling for the garage or a set of flashlights may not be the most glamorous gifts, these items can come in handy.

Craft store: Cater to recipients' favorite hobbies by ensuring they'll be flush with plenty of supplies. Craft stores have a bevy of items for every interest imaginable. They're also surprisingly good places to grab deals on picture frames, housewares, food-making supplies, and decorative items.

Specialty food store: Head to small specialty food stores to load up on unique items larger supermarkets might not carry. Ethnic markets may have flavorful and interesting ingredients to group together in a food basket that makes an ideal gift for transplants missing the flavors of home.

Before a person logs on to the internet for online shopping or heads to the nearest strip mall, he or she can explore various unique places to shop for holiday gifts.

Why you should shop for the holidays and beyond

Various components come together to make the holiday season a festive time of year. There is a lot to get done in a short amount of time during the holiday season, and part of that includes shopping for all of the family members and friends on your shopping list. Shopping can be a complicated process that involves identifying which stores will be the best places to shop. Local retailers make the perfect place to shop for holiday items.

According to the American Express Business Economic Impact Study, more than two-thirds of every dollar spent with a local business stays in the community. Indeed, shopping local benefits consumer and community alike. The following are some of the many perks to shopping locally throughout the holiday season.

Personalized attention: Small businesses are known for their personalized customer service and owners and staff are often lauded for taking the time to interact and learn about their customers, a dynamic that is impossible at larger retailers.

Meet and interact with people: Shopping in-person at local stores, you'll see faces from your community and become a better known in the local area.

Shorter lines: Local stores are bound to have smaller crowds and thus shorter lines. That translates to less stress and hassle when it comes to getting in and out with holiday gifts.

Smaller carbon footprint: Pollution, traffic congestion, habitat loss, and resource depletion may not occur on the same levels when shopping locally compared to patronizing big box stores. That's because local retailers tend to create or source their products locally, whereas many big box stores secure their goods overseas.

Easier parking: This goes hand-in-hand with smaller crowds, as shopping locally does not typically require driving up and down endless aisles at malls or standalone retail stores in an effort to find a parking spot. Local retailers in town may have on-street parking or closed lots that are convenient to shoppers.

Small batch shopping experience: Consumers can secure items in small businesses that are not carbon copies of those found across the country at major retail chains. When seeking a unique, thoughtful gift, shopping locally is the way to go.

Shopping locally this holiday season provides an array of benefits to consumers, and helps to solidify a strong main street in communities.

BREAST CANCER

Awareness & Support

The next steps after a breast cancer diagnosis

A breast cancer diagnosis can be jarring and millions of women around the world are taking certain steps to take away the initial shock of being diagnosed with breast cancer, but can help people prepare for what's ahead.

Gather information

The first step is to learn more about breast cancer. This includes deciding on the type, stage and hormone receptor status of the breast cancer from your doctor. Now is the time to ask the doctor to clarify anything you do not understand. He or she also may begin to spell out a treatment plan. Breast cancer is not always aggressive, you likely have time to seek a second opinion. Another specialist can confirm the diagnosis and offer a second opinion about a potential treatment plan. After all expert opinions are gathered, you also may want to consult with reputable sources like the Mayo Clinic or the American Cancer Society before making any treatment decisions.

Share the news

Some people want to keep their cancer diagnosis a secret, but it can be helpful to let loved ones know about it. The help you can build a strong support system that can offer emotional support and additional assistance when needed. Treatment may leave you feeling weakened and it, and you might need some helpers to lighten your load. A counselor or therapist also can help you through the emotions of a breast cancer diagnosis.

Accept help

It can be difficult for those who are independent to admit they need assistance. You can take the reins by making a list of tasks or responsibilities that you may need help with. This way when people offer their ready help, you have answers at the ready. Ideas include help with meal preparation, childcare, errands, transportation, or keeping you company during treatments.

Prioritize self-care

Breast cancer can take a lot out of a person, trying to maintain some energy and time for self-care. Consider gentle exercise, relaxation techniques and activities that bring a smile to your face. Remember to choose healthy foods and find ways to manage stress as much as possible. Be patient with yourself, as it can take time to adapt to a diagnosis and treatment.

Speak with your employer

Breast cancer can affect your ability to work. There likely will be appointments with doctors and consultations with your care team. Looping your employer in is a smart idea. Many supervisors will be supportive of your needs. You also may want to speak with human resources about any services that could be available to you, or how you can allocate personal time off for your treatment and care.

A breast cancer diagnosis can catch anyone off guard. Taking each step slowly and learning from others can make the weeks ahead a little less apprehensive.

How to support a loved one with breast cancer

Someone is diagnosed with breast cancer every day. The World Health Organization says breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer among women around the world, as well as a leading cause of cancer death. Unfortunately, roughly half of all breast cancer patients are diagnosed with no specific identifiable risk factors beyond age and sex, so there may be no warning signs that a cancer diagnosis is coming.

Chances are a newly diagnosed breast cancer patient will need some measure of help and support but may not fully realize what help also can be overwhelming for certain individuals. But supportive friends or loved ones can help with the day-to-day offer support in various ways.

• Provide meals. Take turns with other friends and family members to prepare and deliver meals. If you don't cook, offer to have takeout delivered.

• Go grocery shopping. Help stock the refrigerator with plenty of healthy and convenient foods. While the person battling cancer may be hungry, keeping food available helps other members of the household.

• Straighten up. Take care of cleaning around the house. You may wash some loads of laundry, vacuum and iron clothes. If budget allows, you can hire a cleaning service to come in once or twice a month for a deep cleaning.

• Offer to dog-sit. If helping a person battling cancer to take the dog on walks, you can step up and handle dog walking or trips to a dog park.

• Take on chauffeur duty. Take on the task of driving the person to medical appointments or watch a young child so the caregiver gets a day or two off.

• Pay bills. Household tasks may seem overwhelming, so you can help with the finances by paying bills or sorting through mail. If medical paperwork has begun to stack up, you also can organize and file items of importance.

• Make the home comfortable. Transform any living spaces, whether they are home or temporary apartments or hotels, with creature comforts. You can use high thread count sheets, newly framed family photos, comfortable pillows and blankets, and more.

• Sit and listen. Sometimes the person battling cancer may want to talk with and listening to the person who is fighting cancer. Don't offer advice or recommendations unless requested. Instead, be present and offer time and support.

Support for friends and loved ones offer a cancer diagnosis can come in many forms and can make a significant difference in people's lives.
